

How To Become A Recession Beater

Master New Skills & Take Control of your Income

Hello & welcome

This is a simple cheatsheet to help you get started generating a side income during the current recession or any time when making enough income to survive is a struggle. Once you have this running you can look at other ways that you can begin to build a job-replacing income, if that is what you would like to do.

Step #1 - Discover How To Let Go And Zero In On Your BEST Learning Style

You Need to Give Yourself Permission to Move Forward in the BEST Way Possible!

One of the biggest challenges of taking control of your income is confronting those voices from your past that might tell you, "Why bother? You'll never succeed anyway!"

But that's SO wrong; that is simply an illusion you've allowed yourself to carry on, decades later.

Next, did you know that each person has their *best* learning-type style?

For some people, reading might be the best way (Reading/writing learners). Other folks pick up 'way more if they could *watch* a tutorial (Visual learners). Some people learn best by listening to podcasts (Auditory learners). And others pick up knowledge best by *doing* (Kinesthetic learners) .

So knowing your best learning style is critical to finding tutorials that will work best for *you*.

Step #2 – Uncover Your Needed Skills and Find Free Tutorials On Them

Next, it's time to see WHAT skills are needed (even during a recession!) and find free tutorials to help you master them.

Luckily, this is pretty simple to do.

One of the easiest way is to see what are the most popular gigs on Fiverr (Fiverr is a place where freelancers can offer to complete projects *without* becoming a member of the company. These freelancers create "gigs" to promote their offerings. (In fact, this is something you can do as well!).

Companies will always want to save money whenever possible, so mastering these skills simply makes sense in the long run. Try this search and see! (all results are within the last month).
